MATH AT NORTHWOOD

Last month, CST Danielle Evangelista met with parents to discuss the new math standards and math series, Investigations. Parents got a chance to try a math activity that their children were doing in the classroom. This opportunity gave parents a glimpse into the new standards based classroom.

There are many ways to help your child at home. Talk about math when cooking, shopping, reading the newspaper, etc. Math is all around us and your children are discussing it everyday in the classroom!

When working with your child on math homework be sure to talk about what he/she is doing. Ask questions like:

- “What do you need to find out?
- Have you ever solved a problem like this before?
- What would happen if you...?
- How do you know your solution is right?
- Is there another way to solve the problem?
- Can you make a model/picture to show how you solved the problem?

There are also many valuable math websites which provide information about math.

Try some of these sites:

Investigations Math: <http://investigations.terc.edu/>

This site has information about the Investigations Math Series

Georgia Department of Education: <http://public.doe.k12.ga.us/>

You will find standards for each subject area and grade level as well as a wealth of educational information for the state of Georgia National Library of Virtual Manipulatives: <http://nlvm.usu.edu/en/nav/library.html>

This is a great site using manipulative for various math skills and activities. This site has various math activities in both English and Spanish.

Math at Home: <http://athomewithmath.terc.edu/>

If you have any math questions, please do not hesitate to contact your child's teacher or Danielle Evangelista.
